SC judgement creates uncertainty in the near term

Quick Pointers:

- SC directs JSTL to liquidate BPSL, terms resolution plan illegal due to delay in payment and use of CCDs.
- BPSL, with 4.5mt capacity, contributes ~13% of JSTL's total 36mt capacity and ~10% of consolidated EBITDA.

The Supreme Court of India (SC) on 2nd May rejected JSW Steel's (JSTL) insolvency resolution plan for Bhushan Power & Steel (BPSL) terming it illegal on account of multiple procedural and substantive lapses found at various levels of the resolution process, ultimately directing the National Company Law Tribunal (NCLT) to initiate liquidation proceedings against BPSL. This judgement has not only created uncertainty around JSTL's deal but also raised questions on the entire IBC process. In a verdict on appeals by operational creditors and erstwhile promoters, SC raised objections over the failure to implement the resolution plan within the prescribed timeline and the use of debt (Rs1bn in equity and Rs84.5bn in Compulsory Convertible Debentures) by JSTL, as approved by the reconstituted Board in Mar'21. We expect JSTL to file a review petition against the judgment, as delays were largely due to uncertainty caused by ED's actions on BPSL's assets. Moreover, in several other IBC cases, leveraging the corporate debtor was permitted.

JSTL holds an 83.28% stake in BPSL and has invested ~Rs35bn since the Rs193.5bn acquisition to enhance capacity from 2.75mtpa to 4.5mtpa. BPSL contributes ~10% to JSTL's consolidated EBITDA and ~12% to its consolidated capacity as of FY25E. In a worst case, assuming JSTL loses the asset, BPSL capacities and proportionate EBITDA would be deducted from our forward estimates, negatively impacting our FY26/27E EBITDA by ~8/9% respectively; resulting ~12% cut in our TP. We have not yet incorporated the potential negative impact in our estimates, but expect stock performance to remain muted until there is more clarity on the issue—primarily on a) legal options available to JSTL, b) recovery of capex incurred on BPSL, and c) appellants' demand over EBITDA in case of demurrer to the judgement. Despite this setback, JSTL remains the fastest growing domestic steel producer with its exceptional execution skills. We maintain 'Accumulate' at lower levels with a TP of Rs1,150 based on 7.5x EV of Mar'27 EBITDA.

Key Observations and Judicial Findings from the judgement:

Violation of IBC and CIRP Regulations

- The court labeled the Resolution Plan as being in "flagrant violation and contravention" of the IBC. (flagrant violation and contravention" refers to a serious, intentional breach of the legal requirements).
- The Resolution Professional (RP) was found to have "utterly failed" in discharging his statutory duties throughout the CIRP of BPSL.
- The Committee of Creditors (CoC) was faulted for accepting and approving the Resolution Plan, despite it not conforming to mandatory legal provisions.
- The Resolution Plan did not comply with Section 30(2) (duty of the RP to examine compliance of the plan) and Section 31(2) (power of NCLT to reject a non-compliant plan) of the IBC.

Section 30 (2) deals with the Resolution Professional's duty to examine the resolution plans. Section 31(2) empowers the Adjudicating Authority (NCLT) to reject a resolution plan if it does not meet the requirements under IBC.

Legal and Procedural Grounds for Rejection

- Failure to implement the plan within the prescribed timeline.
- Use of a mix of equity and debt to fund the acquisition, whereas the plan mandated only equity funding.

Rejection of Resolution Plan and Liquidation Order

- The Resolution Plan was rejected for non-conformity with statutory provisions and for gross delays in implementation.
- The apex court ruled that NCLT should have rejected the plan at the very first instance due to its non-compliance with Section 30(2).
- Consequently, the orders of the NCLT (dated September 5, 2019) and the NCLAT judgment (dated February 17, 2022) were declared "perverse" and without jurisdiction and were set aside. Earlier decisions by the NCLT and NCLAT were completely wrong, made without the legal power to do so, and therefore those decisions were cancelled and made invalid.
- Exercising suo motu powers under Article 142 of the Constitution, the court directed initiation of liquidation against BPSL under Section 33(1) of IBC.

Suo motu powers means when a court acts by itself, without anyone asking it to. Usually, courts wait for someone to file a case. But sometimes, if the court sees that something is very wrong or unfair (like a big accident, injustice, or problem that affects many people), it can step in on its own — this is called using its suo motu powers.

Delays and Strategic Non-Compliance by JSW Steel

- After NCLT's approval of the Resolution Plan in Sep 2019, JSW failed to make upfront payments to creditors within the mandated 30-day period.
- Payments remained unpaid until March 2022, resulting in delays of 540 days for financial creditors and 900 days for operational creditors.
- The court observed that JSW delayed implementation strategically, waiting for a favorable steel market. It made part payments in March 2021 when the steel sector saw a boom.
- The court criticized JSW for instituting frivolous and vexatious litigation to delay proceedings under the pretext of pending cases, despite no judicial stay on implementation.

Impact of Enforcement Directorate (ED) Proceedings

- The Enforcement Directorate (ED) had attached BPSL assets worth Rs40 bn shortly after NCLT approval, creating uncertainty.
- However, the Supreme Court in 2024 directed the ED to hand over the assets to JSW, thus resolving the issue.
- The court noted that enough comfort had been given by lenders (CoC) to JSW and that there was no stay in place preventing implementation.

Failure of the Committee of Creditors (CoC)

- The CoC failed to apply commercial wisdom appropriately and took contradictory positions before the court.
- It accepted payments from JSW without protest, even as JSW delayed fulfilling its commitments under the resolution plan.

Next Steps and Legal Remedies

- In Mar'21, financial creditors had undertaken that in case the Supreme Court, for any reason, sets aside the plan or denies immunity to JSTL in ED cases against the previous promoters of BPSL, the amount of Rs193.5bn will be refunded to JSTL.
- Lenders must now appoint a liquidator. The process will initially seek to sell BPSL as a going concern, failing which it may be liquidated asset-by-asset.
- The liquidator's first responsibility will be to secure and protect BPSL's assets, given the involvement of multiple stakeholders and legal complexities.

Although official reply from JSTL is yet awaited, as per media reports, JSW Steel retains the right to:

- File a review petition against the Supreme Court's verdict.
- Pursue a curative petition, which would be heard by a larger bench if the review fails.

A curative petition is a legal remedy available in the Indian judicial system that allows a party to seek a review of a judgment or order passed by the Supreme Court of India, even after a review petition has been rejected. It is a mechanism for addressing errors or judicial overreach that might have been missed during the regular review process.
